

spotlight

No
sweat

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 2005

Rocky Mountain News 3D

---

STYLE

---

LESLEY KENNEDY, FASHION EDITOR, 303.892.5480, E-MAIL: KENNEDYL@ROCKYMOUNTAINNEWS.COM

Haute topics: Model in a Bottle

Ever find after carefully applying your makeup early in the morning, that all your hard work has seemed to evaporate by afternoon?

To the rescue is Model in a Bottle ($18 at www.modelinabottle.com), a matte-finish setting spray.

The product was endorsed on a recent Oprah episode featuring the favorite beauty items of her makeup artist, Reggie Wells.

Here's how it works: After applying your makeup, simply spray the stuff on your face, and it's said to keep everything in place all day and night.

I tried the product, and it did seem to give my makeup a longer-lasting effect.

But as for making me actually look like Gisele, Heidi or Elle? No such luck.

